News from St Hildeburgh's The Parish Church of Hoylake Sunday 27 August 2023 The Twelfth Sunday after Trinity THE COLLECT

Almighty and everlasting God, you are always more ready to hear than we to pray
and to give more than either we desire or deserve:
pour down upon us the abundance of your mercy,
forgiving us those things of which our conscience is afraid
and giving us those good things which we are not worthy to ask but through the merits and mediation of Jesus Christ your Son our Lord, who is alive and reigns with you,
in the unity of the Holy Spirit,
one God, now and for ever.

LIFEBOAT SUNDAY - BBQ - 10 SEPTEMBER

Revd Paul and Revd Gillian will be hosting a BBQ in the Vicarage garden after the Lifeboat Service on Sunday 10 September.

ST HILDEBURGH'S TOTS

We're up and running after our Summer break, on Wednesday 13th September at 10am.

If you're a parent, a Grandparent, or a carer with preschool age children, do come along. Refreshments are provided for children and grownups. Lots of toys and activities, singing and a story time.

ALL welcome. Come and have fun. St. Hildeburgh's Church Centre. Talk to Peter or Margaret if you want to know more!

ALTAR FLOWERS

The flowers at the altar this week have been donated by Carron Jones in memory of her mother Mary Hutchinson.

FLOWER OF THE WEEK: GLADIOLI 156th in a series.

Text and photographs by Peter Surridge.

Gladioli are well-known as plants with big, bold and colourful blooms with sword-shaped leaves – a characteristic which explains their name. Gladiolus comes from the Latin gladius, meaning "little sword," and shares its origin with "gladiator." Some gladiators in the Roman arenas were said to wear gladiolus corms around their necks for luck when fighting. Gladioli have also been known to as xiphium, from the Greek xiphios which also means "sword".

The erect flower spikes bear funnel-shaped blooms which open upwards from the base, older flowers dying as new ones open. Depending on variety, flowering time ranges from early to late summer, and height varies from a few inches to a metre or more. The colour choice is impressively wide and includes many shades of red, pink, orange and yellow as well as white and even blue, as in the varieties Cote d'Azur and Blue Heaven. There are also bicolours, including the enormous Pink Flare (pictured), growing 1.3m (4ft 6in) tall; Happy Time (scarlet and ivory); and Little Darling (orange and yellow).

There are some 180 species which come from the Mediterranean, Middle East and Africa and are not fully hardy in Britain. More than 10,000 varieties have been developed and they are prized not only for gardens but also for floral art and shows. The largest, showiest kinds were admired by the flamboyant Dame Edna Everage, as depicted by Australian comedian Barry Humphries, who died this year.

Among the numerous fine varieties are Chloe, with rich orange blooms; Green Woodpecker, yellow with a green tinge and deep red spots in the throat; Prins Claus (pictured); and Carrara (pictured) – named from the Latin carrariae, meaning "quarries," which gives a clue to the terrain where it is found naturally.

Gladiolus callianthus (pictured), once classified as Acidanthera murielae, was named for Muriel Erskine, whose husband collected the species in Ethiopia.

Gladioli generally like a sunny well-draining site – a damp situation can rot the corms. Drainage is especially important if corms are to overwinter in the ground successfully. Otherwise the corms are lifted, stored in frost-free conditions over winter and replanted in spring.
