THE COLLECT

Almighty and eternal God,
you have kindled the flame of love
in the hearts of the saints:
grant to us the same faith and power of love,
that, as we rejoice in their triumphs,
we may be sustained by their example and fellowship;
through Jesus Christ your Son our Lord,
who is alive and reigns with you,
in the unity of the Holy Spirit,
one God, now and for ever.

50 / 50 CLUB

Dear all.

Thank you so much for your support over the last couple of years with the 50/50 draw, over this time it has raised £1000 for church funds. I have decided though that it has run its course and the last draw will be at the end of October. The winner of the October draw was Viv Nash who wins £52.50 with number 32.

To round off 2023 I thought it may be nice to have a pre-Christmas draw. Keep the numbers you have or pay for more if you want @ £2 per number with all the money going into the prize pot. I will have my book with me on Sunday, and each week after so come and see me, with your wallets and purses to be in with a chance. Preferably cash for this please as it will make it easier for me to manage.

Good Luck everyone and thanks again for past support. Regards. Liz Ardus

SAFEGUARDING - A POCKET GUIDE

Please find at the back of Church, fresh copies of the Church of England's leaflet, "Safeguarding - a pocket guide." They give a brief but very helpful guide to help if you have any safeguarding concerns as well as dos and don'ts. On the back of the leaflets are the revised safeguarding contact numbers within the church, the Diocese and the Council. Please limit yourself to one leaflet per household and keep it somewhere prominent. If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to contact me. Peter Ham (Parish Safeguarding Officer).

FLOWER OF THE WEEK: SEMPERVIVUM. 164[™] IN A SERIES.

Text by Peter Surridge.

THE sempervivum or houseleek actually flowers in summer but earns this autumn spot because it is generally grown for the unusual, sometimes colourful, foliage which is attractive for much of the year. Sempervivums are succulents from mountainous regions of Europe and Asia so will flourish in well-drained situations where most other plants will not – in wall crevices, rockeries and scree beds. They produce rosettes of thick, pointed leaves from which prominent stems emerge which bear star-shaped flowers of purple, red, yellow or white. Each rosette dies after blooming but new rosettes are formed so that plants spread from 30cm-50cm (12in-20in) depending on species, of which there are about 40.

The foliage of some species is covered in a network of fine hairs resembling a spider's web. Good examples are Sempervivum arachnoideum, the cobweb houseleek, which has green and red leaves and pale reddish-pink flowers; and Sempervivum Kramer's Spinrad (pictured) – Spinrad is German for spinning wheel – with similarly coloured foliage and rich orange-pink blooms. Sempervivum tectorum (pictured) has blue-green leaves which become dark red and maroon flowers. Sempervivum montanum has dull green leaves and red-purple flowers. Sempervivum ciliosum, which has hairy, bowl-shaped rosettes and yellow flowers tinged with green, is sensitive to cold, wet weather so is best kept under glass in winter. Many hybrids have been bred, including Sempervivum Commander Hay which has deep red leaves with green tips and greenish-red flowers.

Most sempervivums are fully hardy but make interesting and healthy houseplants as long as they are not over-watered – they do best in clay pots, rather than plastic. The name sempervivum reflects the plant's reliable evergreen nature, coming from the Latin semper meaning "always" and vivus for "living." However, that is not why they are nicknamed "houseleek", a term which probably referred originally to their reputation for protecting thatched cottages from lightning. Sempervivum tectorum gives a clue – tectorum is Latin for "of roofs." This and other sempervivum species continue to thrive on the roofs of cottages and farm outbuildings. I have seen them spreading to impressive sizes, on slate roofs in particular, in south-west England.

FLOWER OF THE WEEK...
